WHAT THE COUNTRY NEEDS.

The business interests of the coun try are tired of these conditions: Tariff tinkering for political ends. Five tariff revisions in twenty-three years Confidence shaken. Business demoralized. Huge money losses.

Millions of workers unemployed. What the people demand is: A sane and permanent tariff policy. A scientific adjustment.

More common sense, less politics. All the facts brought out. The way to get these reforms is to:

Establish a permanent Tariff Commission. Make it non-partisan.

Give it broad powers. Give it an ample appropriation. Have everybody represented. Put the professional politicians off the job.

Stop lobbying and log-rolling. Bring out all the facts. Reduce unemployment. Establish confidence. Stabilize business.

MERRIAM, BUCK & CO.

If the nine aldermen who have broken into print with an attack on Mayor Thompson wish to speak on a subject which will interest their constituents, they might tell why they have blocked every effort of the mayor looking toward better transporta-

They might tell why they have done nothing and less than nothing to start the building of subways. They might explain why it is that the traction interests have such absolute contro! of the council committee on transportation.

Until they do these things, their tirade against the mayor is both stupid and irrelevant. They had bet ter spend their time and energy in bringing their own records up to the mark by genuine service to the people.-Chicago Journal.

CAPTAIN O'BRIEN'S GOOD RECORD

Captain P. D. O'Brien was one of the best police officials that Chicago ever had. He left the Department with a record for honesty, integrity and manliness that has won him the respect of everybody. Capiain O'Brien has established a detective agency at 160 West Randolph street in company with his sons and everybody wishes them the success that they are so well entitled to.

The Chicago daily papers in their obituaries of the late Miles Kehoe, failed to mention two episodes in his remarkable career which had a great effect upon the history of Chicago and of the United States. In 1877 Mr. Kehoe was the leader of the Illinois State Senate. The legislature was dead-locked over the election of a United States Senator. Three independent members controlled the situation and would vote for neither the Republican or Democratic nominees. Mr. Kehoe proposed Associate Justice David Davis of the United States Supreme Court as a compromise candidate and he was elected. It has always been contended by Democrats. that, had Judge Davis not been elected Senator he would have been taken as the deciding member of the famous Electoral Commission, in place of Justice Bradley of New Jersey and that Tilden would have been declared elected President of the United States instead of Hayes.

Carter H. Harrison was then member of Congress from the West Side of Chicago. Kehoe beat him at the primaries for the re-nomination in 1878 and became the congressional Candidate himself. This fact made Harrison the Democratic Candidate for Mayor of Chicago in 1879 and he diana av.

W. W. VENABLE, ORATOR

Although the tradition that new members of congress, like children, should be seen and not heard, is not respected now as it was in former days, rarely do freshmen of the house make such an impression within a week of their arrival as did Representative Venable of Mississippi, a young man recently elected to succeed the late Representative Wither-

Rising to answer an attack by a Texas Democrat upon the president's advocacy of preparedness, young Venable delivered a speech that placed him at once among the great orators of congress and earned him the plaudits of Democrats and Republicans One of his illustrations, emphasizing the benefits of preparedness, is still being repeated in the cloakrooms. It has been my pleaure during my lifetime," he said, "to be intimately and personally acquainted with two dogs. One of them was a little rat terrier who had a little tail curled over his back like a corkscrew. "That little dog's life was one long sad wall of misery. He was kicked by every man he met and whipped by every dog he ran across. I knew another dog, a magnificent gentleman of his race. His great head reared itself above his shoulders as the head of a lion. He was thewed and sinewed like a gladiator, and his curved forelegs and stanch haunches spoke of tremendous strength. He lived his life respected by dogs and men. I owned him for five years and I caressed him when I felt like kicking him. Why? He was a prince of the house royal, a gladiator of his kind and he was prepared.

'As a result, he lived his life in peace, with all his institutions intact and his personal and property rights thoroughly respected.

in the Kentucky legislature and was elected governor of the state in 1875 when he was thirty-two years old. H. Harrison Democratic Association After that he was elected to the house of representatives, where he served twelve years, and then was transferred to the other end of the capitol as a United States senator. For several years after the expiration of his senatorial term he was a private citizen, only to enter again the political field as a candidate for governor, and he is the only man on record who was twice elected governor of Kentucky after a long lapse of years. "I look back on my first campaign for governor with a great deal of pleasure." said Governor McCreary. "It was that campaign that probably gave to the United State Supreme court bench one of its most respected and valuable members. My opponent in that fight was John Marshall Harlan. Not long after the election I had the opportunity of recommending that President Hayes appoint Harlan to the Supreme court bench."

SAVES INDIAN BABIES

A unique baby-saving campaign launched by Cato Sells, commissioner of Indian affairs, is attracting the attention of statesmen, educators, churchmen and philanthropists in every part of the country, for, Mr. Sells declared, on the success of the campaign depends the survival of a race. Commissioner Sells sent a circular letter to all superintendents and other employees in the Indian service, urging them to do their utmost to save the lives of Indian babies. Threefifths of the North American Indian babies are dying in infancy on account of neglect of ordinary sanitary treatment and lack of food, says Mr. Sells. He declared that the Indian problem cannot be solved with Indians, and says that the race will become extinct unless the United States awakens to the necessity of improving the conditions under which Indian children are born. He directs the employees of the Indian service to make thorough investigations on the reservations to which they are detailed and spare no efforts in teaching the doctrine of baby saving. Tribal funds are to be used in formulating the work, if necessary.

MIYATOVICH'S BRAVE WORDS

Cheddo Miyatovich, Serbian diplo matist and poet, who visited America on a mission from his country declares that until hope is dead Serbia will not die. "Our friends speak of our national tragedy," says he. "We are grateful for their generous sympathy. But our tragedy has not yet seen our tears, nor shall it ever see them. 'Our women suffer silently; our men die silently; we bear our sad burden silently. "Yet our tragedy is illumined by the light of hope. We lost, in honest struggle, all the territory of our kingdom which we raised up from ruins by faithful love of national inheritance, by the self-sacrificing efforts of generation after generation. But in this the darkest hour of our country's history we have not lost faith in God and his justice; we have not lost faith in ourselves, in our allies or in humanity; we have not lost faith in the perpetual progress of the world, moving ceaselessly onward, though sometimes through bitter rivers of blood, sometimes the ruins of national reputations and of once-vaunted civilizations."

ORIGIN OF WHEAT UNKNOWN.

The growing of wheat has so long been a principal occupation with man that its geographical origin is unknown. The Egyptians claim it originated with Isis, while the Chinese claim to have received the seed direct as a gift from heaven. The belief that it originated in the valleys of the Euphrates and the Tigris is more generally accepted than any other. The most ancient languages mention wheat, and it has been found by the archeologists in the kitchens of the prehistoric inhabitants of the Swiss lake region. It is generally agreed that at the lowest estimate wheat has been a faithful servant of mankind for six thousand years.
